* Grants an Amazon Web Service, Amazon Web Services account, or Amazon Web Services organization permission to use

* a function. You can apply the policy at the function level, or specify a qualifier to restrict access to a single * version or alias. If you use a qualifier, the invoker must use the full Amazon Resource Name (ARN) of that * version or alias to invoke the function. Note: Lambda does not support adding policies to version $LATEST.

*

*

* To grant permission to another account, specify the account ID as the `Principal`. To grant permission

* to an organization defined in Organizations, specify the organization ID as the `PrincipalOrgID`.

For

* Amazon Web Services, the principal is a domain-style identifier that the service defines, such as * `s3.amazonaws.com` or `sns.amazonaws.com`. For Amazon Web Services, you can also specify

* the ARN of the associated resource as the `SourceArn`. If you grant permission to a service principal

* without specifying the source, other accounts could potentially configure resources in their account to invoke

* your Lambda function.

* This operation adds a statement to a resource-based permissions policy for the function. For more information

* about function policies, see <a

*
* Creates a Lambda function. To create a function, you need a deployment package and an <a
* href="https://docs.aws.amazon.com/lambda/latest/dg/intro-permission-model.html#lambda-intro-execution-role"> * execution role. The deployment package is a .zip file archive or container image that contains your function
* code. The execution role grants the function permission to use Amazon Web Services, such as Amazon CloudWatch
* Logs for log streaming and X-Ray for request tracing.
*
*
* If the deployment package is a <a
* href="https://docs.aws.amazon.com/lambda/latest/dg/lambda-images.html">container image, then you set the * package type to <code>Image</code>. For a container image, the code property must include the URI of a container
* image in the Amazon ECR registry. You do not need to specify the handler and runtime properties.
*
*
* If the deployment package is a <a
* href="https://docs.aws.amazon.com/lambda/latest/dg/gettingstarted-package.html#gettingstarted-package-zip">.zip
* file archive, then you set the package type to <code>Zip</code>. For a .zip file archive, the code property
* specifies the location of the .zip file. You must also specify the handler and runtime properties. The code in
* the deployment package must be compatible with the target instruction set architecture of the function ( * <code>x86-64</code> or <code>arm64</code>). If you do not specify the architecture, then the default value is
* <code>x86-64</code>.

*

*

* When you create a function, Lambda provisions an instance of the function and its supporting resources. If your function connects to a VPC, this process can take a minute or so. During this time, you can't invoke or modify the function. The `State`, `StateReason`, and `StateReasonCode` fields in the response from GetFunctionConfiguration indicate when the function is ready to invoke. For more information, see Lambda function states.

*

*

* A function has an unpublished version, and can have published versions and aliases. The unpublished version changes when you update your function's code and configuration. A published version is a snapshot of your function code and configuration that can't be changed. An alias is a named resource that maps to a version, and can be changed to map to a different version. Use the `Publish` parameter to create version `1` of your function from its initial configuration.

*

*

* The other parameters let you configure version-specific and function-level settings. You can modify version-specific settings later with UpdateFunctionConfiguration. Function-level settings apply to both the unpublished and published versions of the function, and include tags (TagResource) and per-function concurrency limits (PutFunctionConcurrency).

*

*

* You can use code signing if your deployment package is a .zip file archive. To enable code signing for this function, specify the ARN of a code-signing configuration. When a user attempts to deploy a code package with UpdateFunctionCode, Lambda checks that the code package has a valid signature from a trusted publisher.

* The code-signing configuration includes set of signing profiles, which define the trusted publishers for this function.

*

*

* If another Amazon Web Services account or an Amazon Web Service invokes your function, use AddPermission to grant permission by creating a resource-based Identity and Access Management (IAM) policy. You can grant permissions at the function level, on a version, or on an alias.

*

*

* To invoke your function directly, use Invoke. To invoke your function in response to events in other Amazon Web Services, create an event source mapping (CreateEventSourceMapping), or configure a function trigger in the other service. For more information, see Invoking Lambda functions.
